(Transhumance Trails and Rural Roads Association)

APPLICATION FOR ADHESION

1. OBJECTIVES

The International TT&RR Association (Transhumance Trails and Rural Roads Association) promotes the candidacy for Cultural Route of the Council of Europe of a European Network of Transhumance Routes and Rural Roads.

All TT&RR members contribute to the application and share, if successful, the certification issued by the Council of Europe.

Therefore, it is necessary that all members of TT&RR share and embrace the values that underlie the Cultural Routes Program of the Council of Europe, namely human rights, cultural diversity, dialogue, and intercultural exchanges.

The founding group of the Association includes three countries, Spain, Italy, and Sweden. However, the founding objective of the Association is to affiliate and link as many European countries as possible and possibly even non-European that share the same cultural foundations linked to the legacy of traditional extensive and transhumant grazing.

2. INTRODUCTION

The International TT&RR Association identifies transhumance grazing and extensive grazing as the connecting element of the cultural roots of the countries belonging to Mediterranean Europe, Northern Europe, and Eastern Europe.

Transhumant grazing has profoundly influenced the social, cultural, and economic aspects of European culture, helping to shape the landscape and form a shared cultural identity across national borders.

The International TT&RR Association identifies in the paths of transhumance the network of connections of protohistoric origin, a vehicle for the development of the common European society, the physical equivalent of the cultural and ethnographic heritage that characterizes transhumance grazing.

Transhumance Trails and Rural Roads Association

The International TT&RR Association proposes a transdisciplinary approach to the study of the relationships between the territory, the transhumance itineraries, and the ancient paths.

The International TT&RR Association pursues the promotion and communication of transhumance, understood in its sense of ethnographic tradition, traditional knowledge, cultural landscape and physical heritage of roads and itineraries.

With the candidacy proposal, the International TT&RR Association wants to promote the conservation, recovery, and enhancement of this extraordinary common and transnational heritage, returning it to the center of EU policies on cultural heritage and Europe's collective identity.

Through the application, the International TT&RR Association intends to promote a new type of slow and conscious tourism, which, unlike mass tourism, respects the cultural traditions of the places without compromising their functional aspects. This form of generalized and conscious use of places constitutes an effective means of liberating and promoting the most marginal internal spaces, excluded from the circuits with the greatest public appeal.

To this end, the International TT&RR Association is committed to promoting the sustainable and conscious development of the territories with options aimed at involving all those entities, public institutions, associations that have representation and direct interest in the territory, as well as local communities, society and young people who will be the future operators of the territory, and the custodians of cultural heritage.

It is necessary that the institutions, organisms, public administrations, associations and any other entity or natural person that intends to associate or establish forms of collaboration with TT&RR, adhere to the cultural budgets exposed here, share the spirit of this initiative and the final objective of bringing people together through the rediscovery of their own deep cultural roots.
